Keeping an Eye on Water Resources

District-Wide Conditions for April 15, 2015

The South Florida Water Management District (SFWMD) is issuing the following briefing:

The Kissimmee and Caloosahatchee regions experienced moderate to heavy rain during the past week, while southeast areas of the South Florida Water Management District saw drier conditions. Water levels continue to fall, as is typical this time of year, with higher evapotranspiration rates and increasing hours of sunlight.

South Florida's dry season typically runs from mid-October to mid-May, with about 18 inches of rain on average.

Water Conservation

- South Florida is under the District's Year-Round Landscape Irrigation Rule, which limits residential and business landscape irrigation to two or three days per week.
 - To determine watering days and times in your area, contact your local government or visit www.sfwmd.gov/2days.
- Permitted water users such as nurseries, agriculture, golf courses and utilities can find water use conditions in their permits online at www.sfwmd.gov/ePermitting.

Lake Okeechobee Operations

- The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers manages Lake Okeechobee water levels based on its regulation schedule and the best available science and data provided by its staff and a variety of partners, including SFWMD.
 - SFWMD makes an operational recommendation each week based on conditions. The most recent Operational Position Statement is available at www.sfwmd.gov/opsreports.
