Palm Beach State College to Hold Green Expo

SFWMD to provide information on water conservation and rainy season readiness

WHAT: Palm Beach State College will host its third annual Green Expo this weekend. The day-long event, which drew an estimated 2,000 attendees last year, will feature seminars and workshops on environmentally friendly ways to keep the area's communities strong and vibrant.

The South Florida Water Management District (SFWMD) will be among more than 50 local vendors participating in the expo. The District will have a table of information on water conservation and preparations for the rainy season.

For more details on the SFWMD's Comprehensive Water Conservation Program, please visit www.savewaterfl.com. More information about rainy season readiness can be found on the District's website.

WHEN: Saturday, October 9, 2010

TIME: 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

WHERE: Palm Beach County State College - Education and Training Center
4200 Congress Ave.
Lake Worth, FL 33461

WHO: The public is welcome to attend this free event.

CONTACT: For more information, call 561-868-3885 or visit www.palmbeachstate.edu/GreenExpo.xml.

About the South Florida Water Management District

The South Florida Water Management District is a regional, governmental agency that oversees the water resources in the southern half of the state – 16 counties from Orlando to the Keys. It is the oldest and largest of the state’s five water management districts. The agency mission is to manage and protect water resources of the region by balancing and improving water quality, flood control, natural systems and water supply. A key initiative is cleanup and restoration of the Everglades.
